

Based on my review of financial statements, SEC filings, and comments made by management, I invested in and continued to hold my investment in XO communications.

The actions taken by management over the course of the last year appear to conflict with the interests of both the majority of equity and debt investors in the company.

This company, its assets, and its future market potential have been manipulated for the benefit of management and several minority investors.

Please look into this and do not allow those who have manipulated this company for their own interests and to the exclusion of the interests of the majority of equity ownership to control the fate of this company.

They should be held accountable for their actions.
